

ENSINGER Donation Campaign

The company will double any private donation from colleagues to support a charitable fund for flood victims at Sumatra

Many companies have so far appealed for donations and promised to double the amounts collected.

Plastic producer ENSINGER will also make such a donation for flood victims.

The management team has announced that world wide each employee donation towards a charitable fund will be doubled by the company and transferred to the Franziskanerinnen Reute, Bad Waldsee.

A group of nuns have been living and working at twelve stations on the islands of Sumatra, Nias and Tello. They help the people to help themselves and become independent again.

Through personal contacts of the senior manager's wife, Martha Ensinger, it is guaranteed that the money will be directly transferred to Sumatra. It will be used for building hospitals, houses, schools and children's homes.

„We all know: The dimension of the flood disaster and the resulting harm to the affected population exceeds all our imagination. We are requested to help and already a lot of us have started. We want to donate and help the affected people to make a new start. Each Euro and each Cent and each Penny counts,“ says ENSINGER manager Klaus Ensinger who wants to motivate his employees to donate.

The financial results will be announced at the beginning of March.
